

What is the pattern on the lobby floor?

0_01_01

The pattern on the floor indicates the location of the remains of a residence dating to between the end of the fifth and seventh centuries that was discovered during the construction of the Shinagawa Historical Museum. The square portion represents the extent of the dwelling, and the round portion represents the location of the oven.

The ruins found in this area, including this residence, are known as the Oikashima Archaeological Site. A reconstruction of this residence can be found in the museum garden.

Visual Theater—"Ukiyo-e Record of Shinagawa"

Every hour on the half hour a six-minute video featuring Ukiyo-e illustrations is displayed on the screen. The lights will be dimmed during this period.

Sculpture used to row a ketabune ship

0_01_02

A total of seven meters in length. It was previously used in Shinagawa Bay.